FADC Produces a New Winner in Fall-Winter Series

Pompano Beach, FL (January 9, 2012) – The competitive FADC fall-winter series produced another first time winner Saturday evening as Stephen Oldford piloted Armbro Doyle to his 22nd win in 148 lifetime starts with a 1:59.3f victory. The son of King Conch-Accompaniment-Balanced Image has a record of 1:54.1s and is owned and trained by Scott West. Driver Oldford was making his first 2012 start and first in the FADC series. Oldford was named 2011 Harness Racing Museum Amateur Driving Champion, an honor that he also received in 2009. The Port Huron, MI native earned his 56th career driving win in 337 starts. The FADC fall-winter series has now produced eight different driving winners in eleven events.

FADC equine winners often create trips back in history. Armbro Doyle is a case in point. His maternal family dates back thirteen generations to the 1881 mare Mambrino Beauty. This group of mares has produced 136 foals to date, 102 that took records, 15 under 2:00 and 10 winners of over $100,000. The first dam Accompaniment is a 100% producer from six foals, five under 2:00 and three $100k winners. Armbro Doyle's seventh dam, Nora (1942 foal), produced legendary Scott Frost, the 1955 Triple Crown winner of 23 of 28 starts, and after being beaten by Galophone twice early in his 4-year-old year he rolled to 17 straight wins and over $300,000 lifetime earnings for trainer/driver Joe O'Brien, California owner Saul Camp and breeder Tanglewood Farm of North Carolina (Estate of W.N. Reynolds).

Yes the Oldford – Armbro Doyle connection is rich in history and performance. This is often the case with FADC action at Pompano Park and on your next trip through North Carolina be sure to visit Tanglewood Farm near Winston-Salem, now a park where you can still visualize harness racing's rich tradition.
